SYNOPSIS.

Challis Wrandall is found murdered in road house near New York, Mrs. Wran-lail is summoned from the city and idea-Challis Wrandall is found muraered in a toad house near New York, Mrs. Wrandall is summoned from the city and identifies the body. A young woman who accompanied Wrandall to the inn and subacquently disappeared, is suspected. Mrs. Wrandall starts back for New York in an auto during a biinding snow storm. On the way she moets a young woman in the road who proves to be the woman who killed Wrandall. Feeling that the girl had done her a service in ridding her of the man who though she loved him deeply, had caused her great sorrow. Mrs. Wrandall determines to shield her and takes her to her own home. Mrs. Wrandall hears the story of Hetty Castleton's life, except that portion that relates to Wrandall. This and the story of the tragedy she forbids the girl ever to tell. She offers Hetty a home, friendship and security from peril on account of the tragedy. Mrs. Sara Wrandall and Hetty satiend the funeral of Challis Wrandall at the home of his parents. Sara Wrandall and Hetty return to New York after an absence of a year in Europe. Leslie Wrandall, brother of Challis, makes himself useful to Sara and becomes greatly interested in Hetty. Sara sees in Leslie's infatuation possibility for revenge on the Wrandalls and reparation for the wrongs she suffered at the hands of Challis Wrandall by marrying his murderess into the family. Leslie, in company with his friend Brandon Booth, an artist, visits Sara at her country place. Leslie confesses to Sara that he is madly in loye with Hetty. Sara arranges with Booth to paint a picture of Hetty, Booth has a haunting feeling that he has seen Hetty before. Looking through a portfollo of pictures by an unknown English artist he finds one of Hetty. He speaks to her about it. Hetty declares it must be a picture of Hetty Glynn, an English actresa, who resembles her very much.

Leslie was coming out on an evening traia. Booth, in commeating on this, again remarked a sharp change in Hetty's manner. They had been conversing somewhat bouyantly up to the momeat he mentloned Leslie's Impending visit. In a flash her manner changed. A gulck but unmistakable frown succeeded her smiles, and for some reasoa she suddenly relapsed into a state of reserve that was little short of sullea. He was puzzled, as he had been before.

The dny was het. Sara volunteered to take him beme in the motor. An errand in the village was the excase she gave for riding over with him. Heretofore she had sent him ever alone with the chauffeur.

She looked very handsome, very tempting, as she came down to the

"Have you ever seen Hetty Glynn, the English actress?"

Sara was niways prepared. She knew the question would como when least expected.

"Ob, yes," she replied, with interest. "Have you neticed the resemblaace? They are as like as two peas in a pod. Isn't it extraordinary?" He was a bit staggered. "I have

SYNOPSIS.

Joseph Hayward, an ensign in the United States army, on his way to Fort Harmar, meets Simon Girty, a renegade whose name has been connected with all manner of atrocities, also headed for Fort Harmar, with a message from the British general, Hamilton. Hayward guides him to the fort. At General Harmar's headquarters Hayward meets Rene D'Auvray, who professes to recognizs him, although he has no recollection of ever having seen her before. Hayward volunteers to carry a message for Harmar to Sandusky, where Hamilton is stationed. The northwest Indian tribes are ready for war and are only held back by the refusal of the friendly Wyandots to join. The latter are denanding the return of Wa-pa-tee-tah, a religious leacher, whom they believe to be a prisoner. Hayward's mission is to assure the Wyandots' that the man is not held by the soldiers. Rene asks Hayward to let her accompany him. She tells him that she is a quarter-blood Wyandet and a missionary among the Indians. She has been in search of her father. She insists that she has seen Hayward before, but in a British uniform. Hayward starts for the north accompanied by a scout named Brady and a private soldier. Joseph Hayward, an ensign in the returned satisfied.

BRYAN BEFORE HIS IDOLS.

The Philadelphia Press, speaking editorially, says: Two members of the cabinet are standing firm for a policy of decent consistency and manly action. These are Secretary Garrison and Secretary Lanc. But they are laboring in an aimosphere beclouded by the incense burned by Mr. Bryan before his two idols, Villa and Carranza, who have both flouted the United States before the world. Once the present Secretary of State was a comedy in administration, but now he is a tragedy.

OPTIMISM.

To look on the bright side of life and its affairs with an enthusiastic belief that everything is all right and for the best is ideal. This is especially true as it applies to those who come into contact with the sick. A physician, above all men, should be an optimist-read to stimulate hope even though he may not have it himself. Hopefulness in the countenance and optimism in the words and actions of the physician are as sunshine in the sick-room; they stimulate hopefulness of recovery in the sick and a courage that often has potent influence for good. Even when recovery is not possible, the Journal of the American Medical Association thinks that good, not harm, is done. They make life worth living while it lasts. The psychic influence is always felt so long as consciousness remains. Paget speaking of hypochondriacs, says, "Your chances of doing good will depend mainly on the skill with which you can influence the putient's mind; for of the components of his case the mental condition is the worst."

A PRACTICAL BEAUTY HINT.

The use of cosmetics and other artificial aids to attractiveness is as old as the human race. To Darwin and students of anthropology in general, decorative applications were a feature of selection-of attraction and sexual selection. The check covered with rouge, the heavily elaborated eyebrow and the colored wig, it appears, originated at an early period among courtesans. It has been remarked that "time has taken the taint from the tint", and the wide employment of artificialities today would seem to indicate the truth of this observation. The host of advertised medicaments, the beauty columns which grace or disgrace almost every metropolitum newspaper, the display-windows of the various department-stores catering to a large feminine clientele, bear further witness to the fact. The average man of rational clean mind does not approve of cosmetic innovations in his own feminine people. He would prefer to see these radical departures from the intural confined to the chorns lady and the public tangoist. The physician always warns against the use of cosmetic preparations, because most of them are dangerous. To him the natural and healthy has always seemed to be typical of beauty. Even the editor of the lay press, however, has seen the ridiculous in the beauty column, and the following satirical excerpts taken from a Southern weekly contains what is, in the opinion of The Journal of the American Medical Association, an ideal beauty hint: "For giving the face a good color, get one pot of rouge and one rabbit's foot. Bury them two miles from home and walk out and back once a day to see that they are still there."

THE WORLD REPROVES WILSON.

The loss of the support of the powerful New. York World to the administration is a serious one. Editorially it says:

To accept mediation and nt the same time deliver an ultimatum is most inusual. President Wilson agrees to mediation between this country and "those who now chim to represent our sister Re public of Mexico, '' but, as heretofore, he bars Senor

President "blundered into war." Thousands of disinterested and honest Americans believe it to be a fact. But we shall not blunder out of war, and nothing is to be gained by finding fault with the President for what no human power can now remedy. What is past is past.

NERVES IN THE MARRIAGE GAME.

In the June American Magazine a husband, who has had twenty-five years of married life, tells the story of his experiences. On the subject of nerves those who set a bad example before litin the marriage relation he comments as follows:

"I was extremely ignorant of women and their nre wenk in the faith, is well worth ways, and more ignorant of nerves. Indeed nerves were an item in the marriage relation that I never had considered, and it was years before the relation of nerves to marital happiness became known you please before the public without

Tobacco That is Good For Your Nerves

TUXEDO actually soothes the nerves. It L is just mild enough to keep your nervous system in poise, your muscles in tone. Unlike other tobaccos, Tuxedo burns cool and slow. There cannot be a speck of irritation in a pound of Tuxedo.

Great singers smoke Tuxedo just before a performance. Public speakers testify as to its soothing influence. Doctors recommend it to smokers whose throats are delicate.

The secret of its superiority is the unique Tuxedo Process" by which all the unpleasant features are eliminated from tobacco.

Another reason is that Tuxedo is made from the best tobacco grown — the choicest, mildest, mellowest leaves of the highest grade Burley tobacco.

Tuxedo is widely imitated—but no other manufacturer has succeeded in making a tobacco as good as Tuxedo. Go to your dealer today and get a tin of Tuxedo. It will give you the greatest pleasure and satisfaction that money will buy.

Umplre Brown-It Seems As If We've Heard the Name Before.

Umpire Brown was the turget of many verbal assoults yesterday, and he deserved all he got. Partsmonth fans can overlook the mistakes of an arbitrator when they know the mistake maker is competent. The best of um pires have their off days. However, it wiches. is easy to see that Mr. Brown is not competent. He is so vascillating that ABR HPOAE he is liable to change his decisions Badel, 1b 3 1 1 5 1 0 dozen times. Where Itrown is so pal Chapman, If 4 2 2 1 0 0 publy weak is on balls and strikes, Bat Emery, 38 4 1 2 5 3 0 ters do not know what to take a healthy Donovan, e 4 1 1 2 0 0 swnt at. Some of Brown's strikes are Dieterich, 2b 4 0 1 5 3 0 a foot inside and some of the halls cut Barrett, 1b t 0 1 1 it 0 the plate waist high. Brown's actions Sanford, rf 4 0 1 0 0 0 take all the life and interest out of the day, when it should have been played En almost one-half the time. He does not try to keep things moving and bas clearly demonstrated his unlitness. Portsmouth fans do not want to see the ex-Champs get the be.t or decisions-"boner" is despised by them. They who nots and decides as though he had the backbono of a jelly-fish and the judgment of a Holsteln beifer.

RIGHT OFF THE BAT.

Umpire Jacobs had un off day yesterday and eansed a great deal of dissatisfaction on both sides.

From their latest standing of batting as a club, it looks as if the Nallors made more bits yesterday than they have made all season,

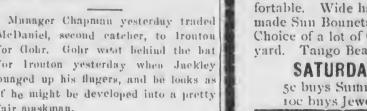

The game was a feature one in so far that neither sido had a fielding error, but there were few brain errors, (in common parlance, "'bones'') made

Johany Netter said yesterday, "It seems as if we are having an awful hard time getting up to that .500 point, but when we do, look out, for we are going to go some."

Maysville plays today and tomorrow at Huatington, coining home Sunday and Monday for games with Chillicothe. Ed Sanford will be on the mound Sun. day for the locals against the Babes.
